

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

A Woman Whose Four Husbands
Met Mysterious Deaths.

THE LAST ONE DIED OF POISON.

And She is Held to Answer—His Predecessor Died the Same Way—Of the Others, the First was Drowned and the Other Never Returned from War.

ROME, N. Y., June 9.—The authorities of Onondaga county have a case on their hands that strongly points to murder. Early on the morning of May 26, John Sengenrie, a man over sixty years old, was found dead on his bed at his house on Laura street in Utica. At first sight it was very apparent that his death was caused by Paris green. Sengenrie had eaten a hearty supper the night previous, and there were indications that there was plenty of the poison around the house. At first it was thought that Sengenrie had committed suicide, but upon investigation Mrs. Sengenrie, her sons and others, told contradictory stories, and Mrs. Sengenrie was very nervous over the matter. The coroner's inquest was adjourned several times, and at each session evidence was presented pointing towards Mrs. Sengenrie as the person who administered the Paris green. Last evening the case was finished and the coroner's jury found that John Sengenrie came to his death from Paris green, and that from the conflicting testimony given by the widow of the deceased they hold her as the person who administered it to him. Mrs. Sengenrie was immediately arrested and placed in jail as the murderer of her husband. The woman has had four husbands, two of them dying of poison.

Mr. Caroline D. Sengenrie was born in Deerfield fifty years ago. Her maiden name was Wilsey. Her first husband was James Staley, by whom she had two children. He was drowned at Potter's Bridge thirty years ago, whether by accident or otherwise was never determined, but it has been said he was pushed into the canal. The widow married Henry Way, who served in the civil war and never returned.

In 1881 the woman, at that time forty-three years old, married Ernest W. Schroeder, aged seventy-six. On the morning of May 11, 1883, Schroeder breakfasted on fresh pork, and became so ill that medical aid was summoned, but in spite of his treatment Schroeder died at six o'clock in the evening. An autopsy was held and the examination revealed the presence of arsenic in the stomach. The inquest, however, was a farce, no witnesses having been called except the physician. Neither Mrs. Schroeder nor her son were asked to testify, though the latter had been in conversation with the deceased a few hours before his death. Mrs. Schroeder, at the time, assigned as the reason why she had married Schroeder, that he was old and needed some one to take care of him, and in consideration of half his property she consented to do so by marrying him.

Her last husband, John Sengenrie, had boarded with her two years before they were married, which was about six years ago. They quarreled frequently and once separated for a short time. Sengenrie said he would sell her property, worth about $2,000, when she married him.

About a week previous to her husband's death the woman became very jealous of him. She found him in the company of a disreputable woman, who told Mrs. Sengenrie that she was going to have him live with her. Mrs. Sengenrie says that she had a quarrel with her husband the night before he died and that he threatened to kill her; that he came home drunk and would not eat any supper, and said to her, "I got full to kill you."

IMPORTANT DECISION.
Judge Phillips Decides that Sunstroke is Not an Accident.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 9.—Judge Phillips, of the United States Circuit Court, decided an interesting point in a suit on an accident insurance policy. Willoughby Dozier, who died about one year ago from the effects of a sunstroke, was at the time carrying an accident policy. The suit brought on the policy by the beneficiary was decided by Judge Phillips yesterday. He sustained the demurrer of the defendant, on the ground that a sunstroke is not an accident, but a disease of the brain, arising from natural and known causes.

GREAT DEVASTATION.

Caused by a Water Spout Near San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—A dispatch from the City of Mexico says that a water spout burst near San Luis Potosi, in the State of Guanajuato, Sunday, the water from which swept away many houses and cattle and uprooted trees; in fact, for a space of three miles, the width of the current, the country was completely devastated. It is not known how many lives have been lost. Hundreds of people are homeless and in a destitute condition.

BONNETT'S SHORTAGE.

Compels His Son to Make an Assignment. They Did Business Together.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 9.—The alleged shortage on the accounts of the late Jacob Bonnett, Secretary of the Rothschild Building Association, has caused M. Bonnett, a son of the deceased, to make an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Jacob Bonnett and his son formerly conducted business under the firm name of Bonnett & Son. The assignment, it is said, is a precautionary measure, as some of the elder Bonnett's notes have been discovered bearing the endorsement of the firm. The creditors of the building association besieged the offices of the receivers in order to ascertain the prospects of obtaining their money. They were given but little hope. The receivers estimate that the liabilities of the association will aggregate $100,000. The assets are about $8,000 or $8,000 in mortgages and what may be realized from Jacob Bonnett's estate.

Since the war he has held various political positions.

Mrs. John Rowles died at her Fourth ward home Monday night after a lingering illness. This is the second and blow for the family, Mr. Rowles's mother being buried yesterday. If there was a death the second death followed immediately, as was the case this time. Last year Mr. John Rowles buried a child, and his sister, Mrs. Jennie Kay, lost her husband. The sorrowing household have the sympathy of the entire community.

The readers of the INTELLIGENCER will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
